

URBAN FUTURE global conference Where CityChangers Meet

We help cities to become more sustainable and dramatically reduce their environmental impact.

The URBAN FUTURE Global Conference brings together the world's most forward thinking and innovative CityChangers. We have a simple but passionate goal: connect those who drive change.

Between May 22 and 24, 2019, we expect 3,000 CityChangers to meet in Oslo at the next URBAN FUTURE global conference. We are now looking for support and we are offering a

COMMUNICATIONS INTERNSHIP

You are into sustainable cities & you love social media?
Yeah, it's a match!

The closer the big event comes, the more tasks arise, and our communications team needs support. There is lots of content to share and many stakeholders to interact with. You will be handling our social media channels (Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Instagram) and adapting content on our website (Wordpress) in close collaboration with our communications manager.

You will gain a lot of valuable experience, such as getting an excellent overview about international players in the fields of urban sustainability, hearing about new and exciting projects from cities all around the world and learning what it takes to organise this major international event.

The job will be based in Graz, Austria and requires to travel to Oslo in the week of the event. Besides a very welcoming atmosphere, good team spirit and lots of chocolate, we offer a salary of 800 EUR per month for 30 hours a week. Starting from February 18 until May 30, 2019.

You are

- a very communicative, accurate and nice person ☺
- fluent in English and German (Norwegian would be awesome, but is not required)
- interested in urban issues and concerned about our society and environment.

You enjoy

- the hunt for the perfect story
- making people smile with your way of writing
- staying focused when everybody around you is busy as a bee
- an international work environment.

We would like to offer this opportunity to a student who needs to gain practical experience for his/her studies (be it urban studies, architecture, communications, marketing or sustainability).

Want to be part of our highly motivated #UFGC19 team? Perfect, then tell us about yourself, your passion, your experience and why you are the one to join us. Send your application to our communications manager Lisa (hello@urban-future.org) before January 31st, 2019.
